Boiler Explosion at the Lafayette Hotel.

At forty minutes past eight o'clock on Saturday morning the boiler of the Lafayette

Hotel, owned by Mr. Adam Good, exploded with such violence as to carry it perpendicularly through the second and third floors of the hotel, whence it fell back through the third floor to the second floor, where it was stopped by the roof of the boiler was precipitated vertically down the northwest corner of the second floor, where it made a large breach in the brick wall, and the force being thereby expended it fell back over the workbench on to the floor. The wall on the west side, where the boiler had stood, was completely blown away, leaving an opening about twelve feet high and fourteen feet wide.

The brick foundation was also blown in every direction. A large water tank which occupied a portion north of the boiler was capsized and the bottom and staves broken up. The windows on the first and second floors were blown out, and some of the debris was projected through the wall of the Douglas house adjoining. The safety valve had been fused on the west side of the iron tank on the ground, and must have been blown out by the explosion. At the moment of the explosion, seven men, nearly as many as were at work on the third floor and three on the second. Mr. Daniel Good, the owner, was not injured, while a great deal of the furniture and contents of the hotel were scattered about. The explosion was caused by the boiler being overfilled with water.

CONCLUDED FROM FIRST PAGE.

until each man has separated from the herd the entire number bearing his brand. The labor is not long, but extremely severe and hot.

Horses and riders are severely taxed, and some of the coldest of the herd are crowded out of them, and occasionally the older ones succumb from being over-driven. Pending the cutting-out period, disputes sometimes arise between some of the different stock-men over cattle with dim brands, or such as have no brands at all. In this case, as in other countries, men are finding more stock than they anticipated, and out of the several thousands that have come under my observation, not one has I seen but was in a thriving condition, and very many of them are fit for the butcher's stall. It is now well understood that seven per cent will cover the entire loss of the stock in Northern Colorado for the past winter.

Gossip for the Breakfast Table.

For the White, the editor of the Chicago Tribune, owns 350 shares in the company, and the other principal owners are Mayor Medill, 45 shares; Governor Brown, 50 shares; J. C. Cowley, the business manager, 65 shares.

Once, during the war, Barnum was at Washington, exhibiting General Tom Thumb and Admiral Mait. Mr. Mait said: "You have some pretty good general, but I think I can beat you."

Mr. Edwin Forrest, Jr., son of the tragedian, one day last week was badly choked with a small chicken bone, which lodged in his throat, while riding on the cars of the Delaware Railroad. A physician on the train came to his relief, and R. V. Peter Cutler, who has been advised incapable of continuing to direct his own affairs, and Madison Cutler, his son, has been appointed his conservator. The increasing debility of Mr. Cutler is the subject of great anxiety to his many friends.

The Rabbids are to hold a great reunion next July, at Frankfort-on-the-Main, when, it is believed, important changes will be agreed upon in regard to the maintenance of the various branches of the great firm.

It is not generally known that Mr. Joseph J. Brown, the actor, is an excellent pianist, and that he has been pursuing his art in the city of New York, where he has made a first-class artist.

A private letter from London, dated May 23, contains the following paragraph: "Julia Ward Howe is here, her object being to enlist the active support of the women of England to a crusade against war. I regret to say that this lady has not met with much support, but there is a nucleus of something upon the idea of a lady, crossing the Atlantic for such an object."

The father of Thomas Nast, the great caricaturist, was a professional musician, a sailing vessel he intended his son should follow, to which he used to thrust him with a leather strap most enthusiastically, in order to make him learn the scales on the violin. This now, however, had a genius for drawing, and he knew it. He is happily married to the daughter of an English lady, and has three children.
